

“In the midst
of all this turmoil and destruction, the Latter-day Saints should dwell in peace and safety.

This they may do
if they will be honest
with themselves,
with their fellowmen,
and with their God.”

President Joseph Fielding Smith