

“We too often
love things
and use people,
when we should be using things and
loving people.”