

A decorative border of small, light blue human figures surrounds the text. The figures are arranged in a grid-like pattern, with 15 figures in each row and 15 figures in each column, forming a frame around the central text.

“Now I do not care how much wealth you pour into the laps of men, unless there is in their bosoms the Spirit of God they are unhappy...

It is so with all of us; unless we have the spirit of contentment in our hearts we are miserable.....

If a man has all the wealth in creation, and has heaped upon him all the honours and powers that the world can give, his soul is discontented and miserable, unless he possesses the Spirit of Christ.”
